2024 | 04 | 08 to 2024 | 04 | 12

Padua - ITALY

The University of Padua is organising the International Spring School "Risk Management for Cultural Heritage. Challenges and Strategies for the GLAM Sector and UNESCO Sites", an intensive week of training, discussion, guided tours and practical activities to learn how to identify, manage, mitigate and monitor the risks that daily affect the cultural heritage preserved in museums, archives, libraries or at UNESCO sites.

Theft, trafficking, wars, counterfeiting, climate change, earthquakes, floods or fires are just some of the dangers to which movable and immovable cultural heritage is subject in every part of the world: the international Spring School aims to provide all participants with theoretical knowledge and practical skills thanks to the participation of professionals, academics and companies involved in the preservation of cultural heritage.
